

What Is E-Waste?

E-waste is a popular, informal name for electronic products nearing the end of their “useful life.” IT Products and consumer durable products and telecom and their accessories and spares are common electronic products. Many of these products can be reused, recycled.

E-waste has been one of the fastest growing waste streams in the world. While e-waste contains valuable materials such as aluminium, copper, gold, palladium and silver, it also contains harmful substances like cadmium, lead and mercury. In the absence of proper awareness, disposing e-waste in landfill can result in toxic emissions to the air, water and soil and pose a serious health and environmental hazards.

Recycling Electronic Waste Advantages

Electrical waste contains hazardous but also valuable and scarce materials. Up to 60 elements can be found in complex electronics. Most electronic devices contain a variety of materials, including metals that can be recovered for future uses. By dismantling and providing reuse possibilities, intact natural resources are conserved and air and water pollution caused by hazardous disposal is avoided. Additionally, recycling reduces the amount of greenhouse gas emissions caused by the manufacturing of new products.

Under the guidelines of the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Government of India, E-Waste Management Rules, 2016 have been notified. Netweb Technologies India Pvt Ltd stands committed to implement E-Waste Rules.

We understand there is a need to encourage recycling of all useful and valuable material from e-waste so as to conserve the ever depleting natural resources.
